Over the quarter, yields rose broadly across developed markets as inflation remained firm and economic activity robust, particularly in the U.S. While central banks generally held policy rates steady, including in the U.S., U.K., and Europe, dovish remarks from officials bolstered risk sentiment even as investors adjusted expectations for rate cuts in 2024. In Japan, the BoJ hiked rates for the first time in 17 years, ending its negative interest rate policy.

Market Outlook

Following a year of recovery in 2022, local real GDP growth slowed to 2.7% in 2023. This was below the Ministry of Finance's projection of 3.2% growth in 2023 and below the 5.5% growth registered in 2022. The slowdown in growth was attributable to the slack in mining activity over 2023 when compared to 2024.

At the meeting held on the 22nd of February 2024, the BoB's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) maintained the Monetary Policy Rate (MoPR) at 2.4%. The decision was supported by the MPC as a recognition of an expectation for the economy to continue operating below full capacity in the short term and thus not expected to generate demand-pull inflationary pressures.

Globally, headline inflation has come down substantially but remains above target levels in most markets with rates likely to remain "higher for longer" as most central banks remain on hold, leading to tighter financial conditions. As financial conditions tighten and the economic cycle slows down, we continue to see some pockets of stress emerging amidst highly leveraged consumers and corporates.
