Market Outlook

The local equity market recorded its best annual performance for the past decade returning 25.47% (DCTRI) over 2023. Whilst the COVID-19 period over much of 2020 and 2021 brought unprecedented uncertainty and turbulence into the local equity market, 2022 and 2023 represented a period of recovery and growth.

The growth in prices over the year was driven by the strong performance of the large-cap banking stocks as well as the consumer sector stocks which benefited from the high inflationary period experienced over much of 2022. Local Bank's interest income rose sharply over 2022 as the impact of the interest rate increase supported the growth of interest income. Consumer Goods stocks also reported strong growth in earnings as they benefitted from the price increases across their product offerings.

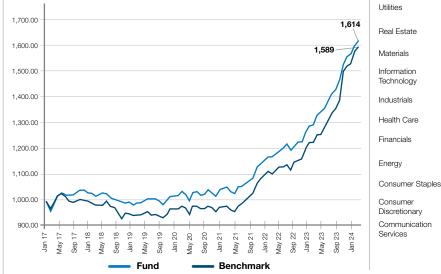

The Bank of Botswana Business Expectations Survey carried out over the quarter reported that firms were more optimistic about business conditions in the third quarter of 2023 compared to the second quarter of 2023. Local real Gross Domestic Product (GDP) grew by 0.5% over the third quarter of 2023, down from a 5% increase registered over the third quarter of 2022. The Ministry of Finance projects GDP growth of 3.8% in 2023 and 4.4% in 2024 reflecting a rebound in economic activity.

The annual inflation rate closed the year at 3.5% in December 2023, an increase of 0.4% compared to the 3.9% inflation rate registered in November 2023. The latest forecasts from the Bank of Botswana show inflation remaining within the Bank's 3-6\% target range over the short to medium term averaging 4.9% in 2024 and 4.7% over 2025.

The Fund's strategy remains underpinned by our disciplined, fundamental valuation and bottom-up portfolic construction process. We continue to keep a constant watch over our opportunity set, incorporate new information into our valuation models, and identify threats and opportunities to strengthen the portfolic.
